| 2/27/17            | Dr. [REDACTED] calls MC   | Dr. [REDACTED] received an email from an unidentified person with the following subject line: "[REDACTED STUDENT NAME], www.edu-Art History—NUDE PICS". Dr. [REDACTED] recognized Student's name as a student who was attempting to get into his class. Dr. [REDACTED] did not open the link and called MC to determine next steps. MC asked [REDACTED] to forward the email to him. [REDACTED] also came to EOO to talk to MC directly. MC asked [REDACTED] not to share this information and that EOO would handle the matter. MC opens the links and observes nude photos of someone that looks like the student. |
| 2/28/17 and 3/1/17 | SGS and MC work with ATUS to see if the sender can be identified or if the sender has sent other western members on campus similar emails | ATUS indicates that the sender cannot be identified and the configuration of the sender's email address suggest that the individual(s) responsible for sending the email may be trying to blackmail the student. Specifically, ATUS thought the sender was sending pics of this student to people that she knew or worked and would stop when they received monetary compensation. ATUS also indicates that the sender has not sent emails to other Western members. It's possible that [REDACTED] was targeted because the sender knew that the student was enrolling or trying to enroll in his class.             |

| 3/10/17            | SGS, MC meeting with Student      | Student shared that someone had tried to blackmail her in the past using nude pictures. Student did not look at the pics but provided a description that matched up with what MC saw. Student provided Sue and MC additional information in regards to how someone may have come into possession of nude photos of her. Student did not want to involve the police and indicated that she was trying to move forward. Student was not looking for EOO to do anything more. . MC reiterated that police may have the technology or skills find the identity of the sender. . Student indicated she would like to think about how to proceed and requested that MC give her some time. MC said that he would check in with Student in case she needed anything or changed her mind after Spring Break. |
| 3/27/17 to 3/31/17 | MC leaves a voicemail for Student |  |
| 4/10/17            | MC calls Student                  | Student indicated that she wasn't in need of resources and wanted to move forward without doing anything more and that she would contact EOO if she changed her mind. Throughout the entire process, Student would not give EOO the identity of the person(s) responsible.   |
